🐾🌙DRAGOCAT

CASE #22: THE MIDNIGHT HEARTBEAT

An Adventure Beneath the Clock Tower

🌙THE STRANGE SOUND

The clock tower had been saved.

Thanks to Luke and Snowball, Cat Hazzard's threat was finally over. Whiskerville could breathe again.

Or so everyone thought.

At exactly midnight, the restored clock tower strikes thirteen.

BOOOONG.

Every clock in Whiskerville stops.

A golden light flickers beneath the tower.

High above Blackthorn City, Dragocat opens his glowing eyes.

His blue markings pulse.

"That's not supposed to happen."

His compass begins spinning.

🔍THE SECRET INSIDE

Dragocat gathers Snowball, Peter, Sandi, Sherri, Scout, Marley, and the squirrels.

Mr. Squibbles arrives with his notebook.

"Inspector, I have checked the official clock records. Thirteen strikes are... highly irregular."

A tiny voice echoes from inside the tower.

"Please... don't let them find me."

Behind the restored gears, they discover a tiny golden creature holding a glowing pocket watch.

A Timekeeper.

But something followed it.

A shadow crawls across the walls.

The clock begins spinning backward.

"Dragocat, we're losing time!" Snowball cries.

Dragocat steps forward, his blue markings blazing.

"Not tonight."

⚡THE CHOICE

The Timekeeper reveals the truth.

The shadow isn't a monster. It's a lost piece of time, trapped for centuries and desperate to return home.

Dragocat must choose:

A. Seal the time portal forever.

B. Risk opening the portal and help the lost time return.

Dragocat looks at the frightened Timekeeper.

"Everyone deserves a chance to find their way home."

He chooses B.

With his friends beside him, Dragocat restores the clock's golden heart.

The portal opens.

Warm light sweeps across Whiskerville.

The shadow transforms into thousands of glowing stars.

🐈‍⬛THE ENDING

The Timekeeper smiles.

"Thank you, Dragocat."

The tiny guardian disappears into the portal.

Snowball looks at him.

"Think we'll ever see it again?"

Dragocat smiles.

"In Whiskerville? Never say never."

High above the city, Dragocat spreads his wings as the restored clock tower glows behind him.

Then, deep beneath the streets...

One golden gear begins turning.

A voice whispers:

"The first door has opened."

