MR. SKUNKY LUKE: NIGHTLIFE

The Mirror of Midnight

It began with a scream.

At exactly 12:00 a.m., every mirror in Whiskerville reflected something that wasn't there.

Citizens caught glimpses of glowing eyes watching from behind them.

A stranger standing where no one should have been.

A city that looked identical to their own... except it was completely empty.

Perched high atop Blackthorn Cathedral, Dragocat felt the silver key grow ice cold against his chest.

The ancient compass spun wildly.

Then every mirror in the city shattered at once.

Thousands of voices whispered the same words:

"Come find us..."

Dragocat followed the compass deep beneath the abandoned cathedral, where he discovered an enormous ancient mirror hidden behind centuries-old stone walls. Strange blue runes glowed around its frame, and inside the glass stood another version of himself.

Not a reflection.

Another Guardian.

Its wings were tattered.

Its golden eyes had faded to silver.

It slowly lifted a paw.

"So... you finally found me."

Before Dragocat could react, the mirror cracked open.

Shadow creatures poured into Whiskerville through the broken glass, turning the cathedral into a battlefield. Blue moonfire illuminated the darkness as Dragocat unleashed his magical chains, battling creatures that seemed impossible to destroy.

The mysterious Guardian fought beside him, matching every move with ancient precision.

Together they sealed the Mirror of Midnight, trapping the shadows before they could consume the city.

As dawn approached, the mysterious Guardian stepped back into the mirror.

Before it disappeared, it spoke one final warning.

"There are eight more mirrors... and someone is opening them."

The glass turned dark.

The cathedral fell silent.

High above the waking city, Dragocat spread his wings beneath the fading moon.

For the first time, he realized he wasn't the only Guardian protecting the Animal Kingdom.

Somewhere beyond the veil...

Others were watching too.

End of Nightlife Adventure #11: The Mirror of Midnight. Video to come over the weekend!

Coming Soon... The Nine Guardians

